

Tracy A. Ball

Made entirely of rum and snacks—International Bestselling Author, Tracy A. Ball is a native Baltimorean and veteran West Virginian, whose family is a mashup of cultures. She writes real and raw interracial romance with an intensity that burns because she has been busting stereotypes while teaching interracial/generational healing for more than a quarter of a century.

Tracy engages with folks from every twist of fate and all manner of experience. She has hung out with murderers and dined with people who have dined with the Pope, which is why she needs the rum...and a nap.

Her published works include: Blood Like Rain, Welcome to BBs, The Other Shore, Death's Desire, Big Guns & Bullsh@t, "Imogene's Flowers," "Thorns," "Black's Magic" "Truly, Madly, Kiss Me," "Cumberland Christmas," Civil Warriors, Dragonfly Dreams, "An Angel with Dirty Wings," "Tsarina," KAYOS: The Bad & The Worse, The Tiger & The Snake, The Right Way to Be Wrong, "Left on Marriottsville," "The Train Ride," Mail Duty, White Russian Lies.

Facebook  Amazon  Bookbub Twitter Goodreads

There's no sugar & spice in these ladies--just poison & vengeance. Wayward boys learn this the hard way in--

POSSESSED BY PASSION

I WON'T HELP YOU.

BLOOD LIKE RAIN

I WON'T HELP ANYONE.

TRACY BALL

CRAZY
INK